

Core Facilities and You

How to get paid for the things you were going to do anyway
(or are doing already)

What can a core facility model do for you?

- Consolidates support and funding for shared services and resources
- Provides a mechanism for supporting high-demand services and resource provision that not covered by institutional funding sources (indirect costs)
- Provides a framework for service package, hourly rate, and passthrough expense quoting and billing for internal (sponsored project) and external (inter-institutional and industry contract) clients (direct costs)
- Helps us stop doing work for free, forever, because it is interesting or because we feel a sense of obligation

Talk to your existing core facility directors.